DESCRIPTION:

The department of political science organized U.N.O DAY ESSAY WRITING COMPETITION. A critical reason educational institutions must implement competitions in their curriculum is to ensure their students are ready. Life after school can be quite challenging especially when students are unprepared for it. They need to know what to expect and that things won't always go their way. Through the medium of competition, your students will learn to handle disappointment, rejection and even failure. They will also have the support of their teacher and parents as they are navigating through these experiences, which often isn't available after they leave the college.
